CLUB CHAT

Being fortunate enough to steer clear of injuries with the exception of Gordon Waite whose cartilage trouble necessitates an operation, we have continued our run of success with at times sheer brilliant football. We can count ourselves unlucky though, by the tide of fortune, in what otherwise would have been a blank date, we now have to meet the league champions without two of our Test players, Gunney and Burnell. This just shows how the best laid plans can go amiss.

Geof. Gunney and his fiancée selected this date which would have been all that could be desired for their marriage.

Our best wishes to you Geof. on this day of all days and may the future be one of continuing happiness and prosperity. To you Alf, congratulations on being best man at this happy ceremony.

National Service once more claims one of our regular first teamers, H. W. (Billy) Langton, who has reported for duty and will now have donned the familiar khaki uniform. Good luck, Billy, and may we be fortunate enough to secure your services when duty allows.

Much controversy has been aroused by the articles in the press about the missing thousands from our last home match (versus Wigan). Many letters have been sent to the press and to us and what a cross-section of opinions there are. The anonymous ones, which in the main are from those with one track minds, we choose to ignore for they do not offer anything of a constructive nature. We cannot publish the letters we have received but here is a typical extract: "As a Leeds R.L. supporter, I was interested in the article about the absent 11,000 spectators last Saturday compared to the attendance at Headingley. I queried this with 12 Leeds supporters as an example. Where did they go last Saturday? The answers were as follows: 4 out shopping with their wives; 4 televiewing or wireless; 2 went to watch 'A' team; 2 went to see Bramley play."

We are glad that 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ % are rugby enthusiasts and only hope the 66 $\frac{2}{3}$ % will join up and make 100% rugby fans.

To those who wrote, which showed their interest in the game and the controversy which was aroused, we say 'Thank you.'

Last week's game at Parkside against Bradford 'A' must have given great satisfaction to those who attended. Winning by 34-9, our reserve team scored ten beautiful tries. Like their seniors, they deserve better support.

We are pleased to see the twin brothers Platt settling down to our game after only joining us some few weeks back from the Rugby Union. With their colleagues in the forwards, from whom they are receiving advice and help, the pack is doing a grand job.

Now for today. We welcome most heartily the champions, Oldham, recognising them to be a grand all-round team. We have found this to be only too true for since the war we have only been successful once out of ten games played. But they have been grand matches to watch and our hope is that today will be no exception.
