NOBBY'S NOTES
O X --- O X

Hello everybody and welcome to today's game against Hemel Stags.

The last time we met was at Hemel's ground and turned out to be a very tough encounter. Hemel started the season with three wins out of three and beat some tough opponents, so we knew it was going to be extremely hard to beat them. It was probably one of our most complete performances this season and only in the last fifteen minutes did we pull away from Hemel and score some points.

A lot of people in the game (not including myself!) thought Hemel's three victories at the start of the season were a freak occurrence, but their victory against North Wales Crusaders last week squashed that idea very quickly. Their position in the league in 4th spot also proves they have the consistency to carry on for the rest of season playing quality rugby. Today's game is obviously going to be extremely hard and as a team we are going to have to be at our best.

The game last week against South Wales Scorpions ended up being a thriller unfortunately and not very good for my heart or greying hair. As a team we seemed to start poorly again and went 16 - 0 behind before we woke up and started to do the things we work on in training. It isn't the first time this season we have started slowly but hopefully it will be the last.

Giving teams a start in this league is making life very hard for us as a team but we seem to have the resilience, fitness and mental strength to finish games strongly. We have a very young team and this season so far has been a huge learning curve for a lot of the lads, but I can't speak highly enough about the way they handle themselves at training and the work ethic they show on a weekly basis. We have a very small squad but they are very close to each other and have the team spirit that's required to win those games when it gets tough on the field.

On a more sombre note I lost my father last Saturday night who unfortunately was dying of cancer. He fought the disease for twelve months but it finally managed to get the better of him. He passed away at his home with my mum, wife and me with him. He was an outstanding man and the main reason I played rugby and the main reason why I worked so hard and eventually became successful at it.

Without him my life is never going to be same but I will always remember what we shared in victory and loss when I played. Hopefully I will be as good a dad to my children as he was to me. An outstanding bloke!

CHRIS' COMMENTS

Welcome once again to Whitebank Stadium. After two weeks on the road at both ends of Wales and two matches of very different results we return with four points, no fingernails and confirmation that this group of players don't know the meaning of a lost cause!!!

Both of the last two matches have been dramatic to say the least with the North Wales finish breaking our hearts and the South Wales finish nearly breaking it again but for different reasons!!!
 I'm not sure mine will take too much more of this but you have to say that both matches have given excellent value for money and nobody can fault the commitment of the players.

The finishes in both of those games was unbelievable and if you had been scripting them you couldn't have come up with anything more dramatic!
 Words probably don't do justice to the efforts they have put in week in week out but without any doubt their willingness to work for each other and keep going to the end is second to none and a massive compliment to them and all the coaching and support staff.

Christopher Hamilton
Chairman

We now turn our attention to today's visitors Hemel Stags who last week became the first team to inflict defeat on North Wales but even before that they had recorded results which had underlined their desire to make a success of their professional status. The result last week simply makes today's game more important but without doubt we will not be underestimating them even though we won at Pennine Way only a few weeks ago. They are strong and physical and we will need to be on our game to get a win.

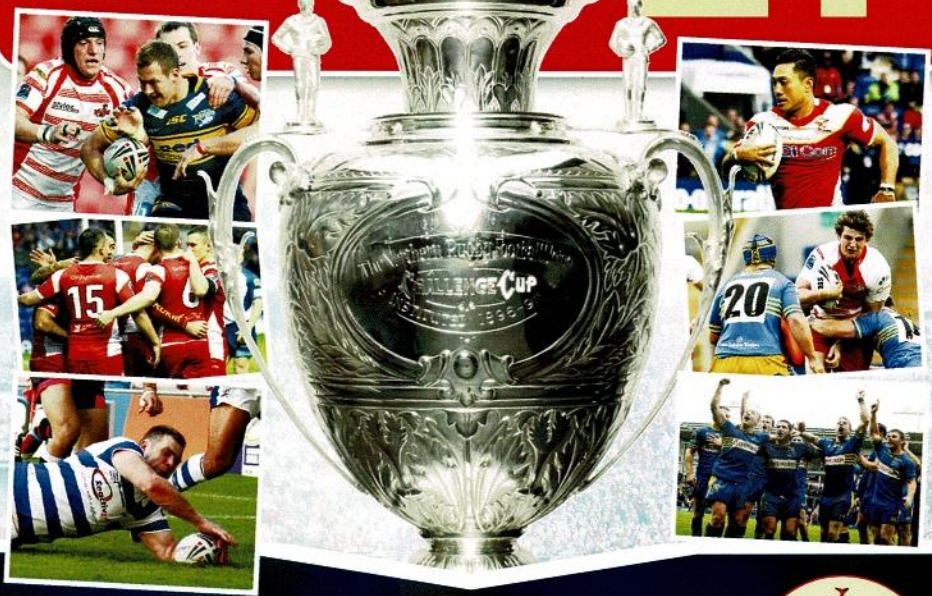

Prior to today's game we have reached the halfway stage of the season and when you think that although we have lost three of the eight matches the total aggregate winning margin in those games was only 14 it goes to show how consistent we have been and if we can maintain that same desire between now and the end of the season we won't go far wrong. I say every year just how competitive this division is and it seems that it gets harder as each year goes by.
 Let's hope we have a decent turn out today as income is being squeezed from all angles and with only eight home games attendances are vital.

Keep up your support for the lads and enjoy the game.

Finally.....Tell me a secret.

I wish I'd taken up a pub sport... Just kidding!!

TEENAGE centre Jon Ford who scored FOUR tries for Oldham in South Wales ---- has declared his allegiance to the Roughyeds for the next month at least.

To celebrate he was pronounced the Premier Sports Championship One Player of the Week after an outstanding display in their dramatic win over South Wales Scorpions. Ford records the maximum five points towards his competition's Player of the Year award at the end of the season.

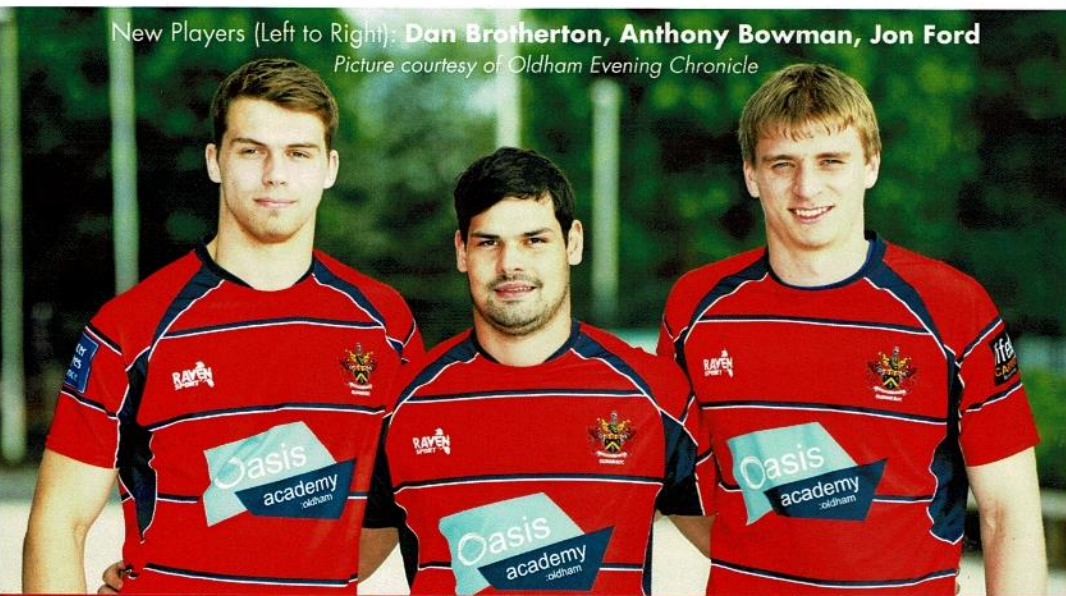

Ever present Jason Boults in action

Roughyeds also landed the Premier Sports try of the week thanks to Mark Hobson's last-gasp touchdown in the corner which gave them a dramatic 36-32 win against South Wales Scorpions in Neath, and Jason Boults was included in the Team of the week.

Previously he had scored four in five match-by-match dual-reg. games for Scott Naylor's men, but doubled his tally in his first appearance since signing on loan from Salford City Reds.

"I'm very happy to be at Oldham on a more regular basis now," said 19-year-old Ford. "I enjoyed it here when I was on dual registration. I would have signed loan forms earlier, but I had one or two things to sort out with Salford first."

"It was good to score four tries in one game. I can't recall having done it previously. It's help, of course, to be standing 6ft 5in tall."

Picture courtesy of Oldham Evening Chronicle

Assistant coach Lee Spencer lauded Ford's performance and said it confirmed what many pundits had believed for a long time – that he has what it takes to go far in the game.

He added: "Jon was in the right place at the right time, but that in itself is a skill. He read Anthony Bowman perfectly and as a consequence Bowman put him through some nice holes."

Scott Naylor added, "I've always wanted to get Jon on loan, as opposed to week-to-week dual registration, because he's a very good player and a top lad."

"The partnership with Salford is working well for us and I'm hoping that once the initial one-month is up we will be allowed to extend the loan and perhaps keep hold of Jon for a while longer."

New-boy Bowman, slotted effortlessly into his new role at stand-off, but things didn't work out so well for the other newcomer, Dan Brotherton, who had to quit with an ankle injury early in the second half.

A winger, Brotherton came on dual registration from Salford to cover for Mo Agoro, who rolled an ankle at North Wales Crusaders and missed the next game against the Scorpions at Neath.

Bowman came on a more permanent arrangement – a month's loan, like Ford – and had a very pleasing debut in Neath.

Bowman, who plays loose-forward or half-back, was born in Halifax, but signed for Wigan Warriors as a boy before returning home and joining Fax in 2010.

He has scored 16 tries in 38 first-team appearances for the Championship club. Last season was his best. He scored 10 tries in 19 games, nine of them in the Championship.

The loan deal was brokered in talks between good friends and former coaching colleagues at Salford – Halifax boss Karl Harrison and his Oldham counterpart Scott Naylor.

Said Naylor: "Bowman can play a number of positions. I liked what Karl had to say about him and I saw it as an opportunity to bring in a player who has had considerable experience in a higher division.

"We've got a run of tough and important games coming up and we need to make sure that the squad is strong enough to take us to where we want to be.

"We've got a few injury niggles, nothing serious, but some of the boys are bruised and sore and I think now is the time to give a couple of them a rest.

"It's all about spreading the workload a bit and managing the squad so that, come the business end of the season, we are at our very best and not feeling the ill effects of a tough campaign. I've got to look ahead.

"I want us to peak when it matters most, but to do that I have to manage things now and keep an eye on the lads who have had it tough over the last few weeks."

Given anything like reasonable luck, both Ford and Bowman will be in the side today for what we consider will be a very tough contest against Hemel Stags, here at Whitebank.

OLDHAM R.L.F.C MERCHANDISE

OLDHAM RLFC has linked up with Maisie Lou Designs, a family-run business based in Lees, to market a wide range of club merchandise carrying the club's embroidered badge.

The business, launched last November, belongs to Becky Nowell (36), a solicitor by profession, whose husband Matt is a lifelong Roughyeds' supporter.

He said: "We felt that a move like this would benefit both Oldham RLFC and Maisie Lou Designs while at the same time making available to supporters a wide range of quality merchandise at competitive prices.

"We hold the stock, so the club doesn't need to have capital tied up or to face a major outlay initially."

When her first daughter was born five years ago, Becky took a career break and began making personalised children's gifts for friends, using bespoke embroidery.

She quickly realised there was a market for her quality products, so she took the decision to leave her post as a Senior Crown Prosecutor with the CPS in Central Manchester to work full time in developing and expanding her business in personalised gifts.

Becky, who has two daughters, Charlotte (5) and Harriet (3), said: "It was a daunting experience to leave behind the drama of the courtroom, but it was a decision that wasn't taken lightly."

Items for rugby fans include Oldham RLFC knitted hats for children and adults; match-day reporter bags; waterproof drawstring bags; mouse mats; mugs; teddy bears; towels and blankets, all at prices ranging from £7 to £17. Available soon will be car stickers, dressing gowns and baby gowns.

Fans can get a more detailed look at what's available online in Roughyeds merchandise by going to www.maisieloudesigns.co.uk and clicking on 'clubs and associations' in the list of 'shop categories'.

Alternatively, go direct to the Oldham RLFC section at www.maisieloudesigns.co.uk/ourshop/cat_708803-Oldham-RLFC.html

Supporters can use the 'contact us' link to provide Maisie Lou Designs with feedback and suggestions.

It is important to note that this is merely the start of a new range of Oldham RLFC - associated items and over a period of time the range will grow. Embroidered lines provide quality and longevity over printed merchandise and won't crack and fade in time.

MAHDLO

RUGBY LEAGUE EVENT

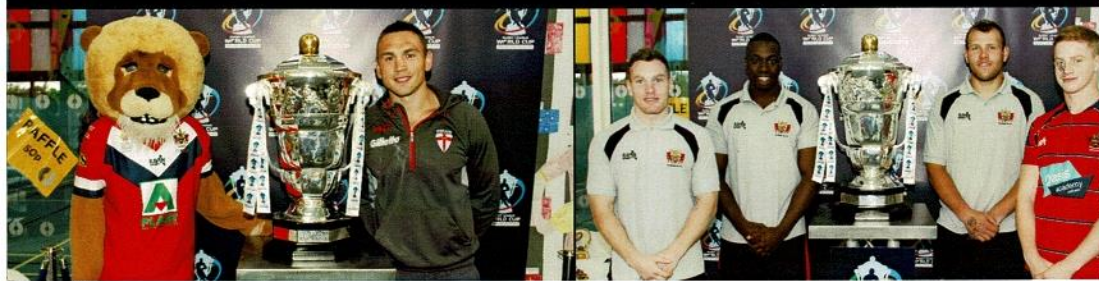

ROUGHYEDS were represented at a major rugby league event at Mahdlo, Oldham's youth zone, by Josh Crowley, Mo Agoro, Sam Singleton and Rory the mascot. Also pictured here is Oldham-born Kevin Sinfield, the captain of England and Leeds Rhinos.

The event was part of Mahdlo's "Try, Train, Team" programme which encourages young people to participate in sport against teams from other youth zones across the region.

The Rugby League World Cup starts here in England in October and the 200 or so visitors who turned up to the Mahdlo event could talk to Kevin, the England captain, and look at the World Cup silverware which will be up for grabs come the autumn.

Roughyeds were proud and privileged to be there.

Anyone aged 8 to 12 can go to Mahdlo every Saturday morning and 'Try Rugby' or call Claire on 07507-038 160 or visit the Mahdlo website at www.mahdloyz.org.

KENNY HUGHES

Who are your heroes or people you look up to?

My hero is my granddad and dad for getting me involved in rugby and for keeping me motivated. I look up to John Ford when he plays on the left as he is a lot taller than me.

Do you play any other sports and if so do you excel in them?

I play football now and then to keep me on my toes.

What is the highlight of your career so far?

I'd say getting my first team shirt for one... The next time you ask I want to be saying getting promoted.

If you could invite 2 people to dinner dead or alive who would they be?

Probably Nobby and Spanner if it would keep me in the team ;) Mr Hamilton would have to be the waiter though, to keep me sweet.

If your house was to be hit by an earthquake what would be the first thing you'd save?

Myself for sure.

Who's the funniest of your team-mates and why?

I'd split it three ways between Sammy G, Dale Bloomers and Hobbo. They're all equally funny, take the Mick out of every one and bounce off one and other.

Which TV programme would you never miss?

The Only Way Is Essex or Geordie Shore.

What was the last book you read?

I don't read books to be honest... probably biff, chip and kipper in year 1.

What's your favourite type of music?

I get a hot bath and listen to my iPod.

How do you relax after a match?

A secret told is a secret not kept and therefore not a secret ;)

Finally.....Tell me a secret.

I own a pair of crocs...

PHIL'S NOTES

Always nice to get one over on our nearest rivals, Rochdale Hornets on our last outing. After a shaky start, we began to play with good shape and balance in what turned out to be a very physical game. Our superior fitness came to the fore resulting in some excellent rugby being played and we ran out worthy winners.

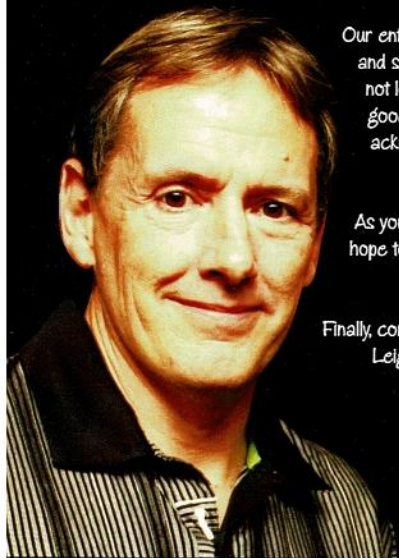

Our enforced break gave our players an opportunity to train with their amateur clubs. I try and strike a happy balance to accommodate their commitment to Oldham but also for us not lose sight of their obligations to their amateur clubs. I am pleased to say I have forged good relationships with the coaches of player's respective amateur clubs with the majority acknowledging the benefits of their players playing at a higher intensity. This reaps benefits for all parties concerned.

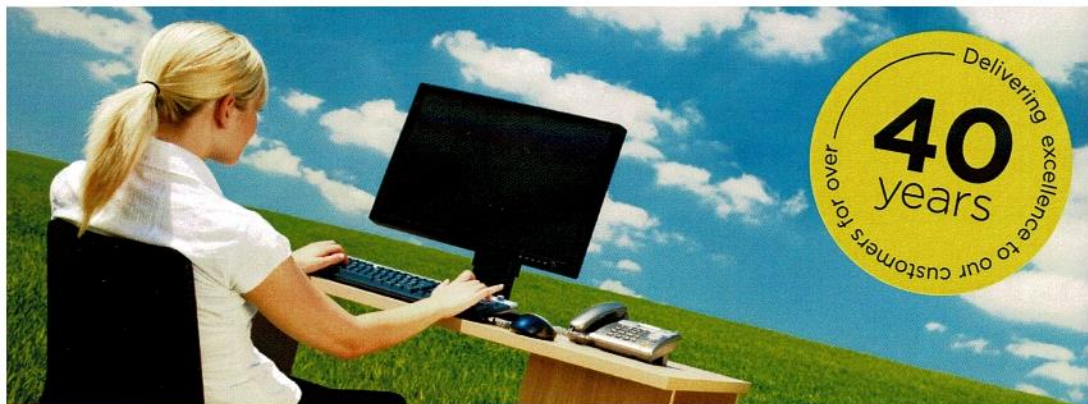

As you are reading these notes we will have just played Hemel Stags. A match in which we hope to continue our good form against a side whom we will not be underestimating. The score line of our last encounter did not reflect the effort put in by the Stags.

Finally, congratulations to Andy Ball (M.O.M.) and Brad Roden on their involvement in assisting Leigh East Under 18 becoming National Cup Winners in Blackpool, last Saturday.

Best Wishes

Phil
